

There are very few radio stations left which present an intelligent overview of the news. One of them is NPR so that is the only station I listen to. On television it is also hard to find channels with balanced coverage. I want to be able to get a clear and balanced view of issues from the media. It is important to keep this option available by not allowing media conglomerates to buy up the available channels. On June 2nd, I urge you to retain the current ownership rules. Thank you
